STAT
SUBJECT: [REDACTED] Action Panel

1. At the 13, 14 March meeting of the Security Committee Principals the concern about the large amount of currently compartmented National Foreign Intelligence that will find its way into the category of National Security information was repeated.

STAT
2. The Security Committee accepts that current direction of [REDACTED] Action Panel towards establishing a distinct category of classified material within a large body of National Security information would be prohibitively expensive from both managerial demands and investigative resources.

3. The Security Committee, therefore, directed its staff to study the possibility of presenting to the Director a well-staffed proposal seeking his support in elevating the criteria for investigations utilized in adjudicating an individual's reliability and suitability for access to classified National Security information. The staff is currently conducting preliminary inquiry and data collection.
